Has Breathing Difficulty

Kennedy's Son Called 'Serious,' But Physicians Remain Hopeful

BOSTON (AP)—Patrick Bouvier Kennedy, one-day old son of the President, was listed in serious condition today, but doctors said the way he spent his first nigh gave some encouragement.

The President visited his new son this morning at the Boston Children's Medical Center and moments later, presidential pres secretary Pierre Salinger issue this statement:

"The baby's condition remaine about the same through the night.

"It was a source of some encouragement to doctors who fel the baby's condition would ge worse."

"The baby's condition would have to be described as still serious, a cause of some concern, but doctors are still hopeful," Salinger said.

The White House put wraps on release of medical information directly at Boston Children's Hospital where the 4-pound, 10-ounce baby is fighting breathing difficulties.

Salinger said the White House staff would release all information on the baby's condition and refused to discuss details of the case.

He said the diagnosis remained the same as it was Wednesday—the general term idiopathic respiratory distress syndrome—or difficulty in breathing from unknown cause.

Although Salinger said the condition was still serious it was the first time he had used that word to describe the baby's condition.

The President stayed at the hospital for about a half-hour and then left by helicopter for the Otis Air Force Base Hospital on Cape Cod, about 65 miles away, where the baby was born Wednesday and where Mrs. Kennedy is recovering.

First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy rested nicely overnight and was reported in excellent condition after the excitement of the Caesarian birth of her third child —5½ weeks ahead of time. Her mother, Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, who flew to Cape Cod Wednesday night, said Mrs. Kennedy was "remarkably well and in good spirits."

The President's infant son was rushed by ambulance to Boston Children's Medical Center within five hours of his birth at Otis Air Force Base Hospital, some 65 miles from Boston.

Little Patrick was not considered on the danger list or anything like it, according to Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary. However, Salinger said it would probably take four days before the condition develops to a point where a final diagnosis can be made.

The President made plans to send up his nuclear test ban treaty message this afternoon, as was scheduled before the emer-

Haiti Claims Rebel Force Crushed, But Invaders Say 'No'

Exiles Say Troops Still Press Drive

Government States Cantave Not Among Slain Or Captured

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—President Francois Duvalier's government claims the invasion of Haiti by Haitian exiles has been crushed, but exile sourses in the Dominican Republic insist the invaders are advancing.

Information Minister George J. Figaro said in a communique that Duvalier's troops had crushed the invasion after several hours of fighting in north Haiti Monday. He claimed the rebels, led by Gen. Leon Cantave, a former chief of staff, had been driven into the neighboring Dominican Republic.

The communique said "a state of good order prevails" throughout Haiti.

Adrien Raymond, Foreign office undersecretary, told newsmen some rebels were killed or captured, but he acknowledged that Cantave was not among them.

The government placed the size of the invading force at about 100, or one-fifth of what the rebels claimed.

Private sources in Port au Prince claimed Cantave was still on Haitian soil pressing his drive to topple Duvalier.

A rebel spokesman in the Dominican Republic accused Duvalier's regime of issuing false victry claims to try and discourage Haitians from joining the invaders.

Exile sources in the Dominican Capital of Santo Domingo insisted two rebel columns had thrust down past Cap Haitien, Haiti's second largest city.

City School Board Posts Sought By 7

Beaver Local Also Has 7-Way Contest; 5 For Wellsville

The East Liverpool, Wellsville and Beaver Local School districts each gained two new candidates for Board of Education seats in last - minute filings for the Nov. 5 general election before the deadline Wednesday at 5 p. m.

The late entries with the County Election Board mean that both East Liverpool and Beaver Local have seven - way races for two board seats and Wellsville has a five-way race, also for two posts. The field for two Columbiana County Board of Education seats was left unchanged at three.

New candidates for the East Liverpool board are:

Harry L. Simpson, 830 Chester Ave., an expediter at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co., where he has been employed 14 years.

William E. Blair Jr. of Homestead Dr., president of the Tri-State Producing Co., an oil and gas exploration firm, and a former teacher in East Liverpool and Struthers schools.

Three incumbent members of the East Liverpool board did not file for new terms. They are C. Walter Ashbaugh, James Lowe and James B. Moss.

New candidates in the Wellsville Board of Education race are:

Richard R. Grills, 504 Aten Ave., art director at the W. C. Bunting Co., who is seeking his first full term.

Mrs. Margaret Lloyd, 335 1st St., a housewife and a former

City Tax In Issues

182 Candidates File By Deadline

A total of 182 candidates filed with the County Election Board before the deadline Wednesday at 5 p. m., seeking posts in school districts, townships and villages under 2,000 population in non-partisan balloting at the Nov. 5 general election.

The number of aspirants is down 72 from the 254 who entered for the last similar election in 1961, according to Frank R. O'Hanlon, Election Board clerk.

THE NUMBER of candidates two years ago was the largest since justice of the peace posts were eliminated about 1958. When the squires' posts were dropped, the number of township elective offices was reduced by 50.

The Election Board is scheduled to meet Friday at 10:30 a.m. at its office here to pass on the validity of the candidates' petitions filed by the deadline yesterday. At the same time, it will act upon ballot places for 21 special questions and issues that have been filed to date.

The Election Board also expects to award a printing contract for its November ballot supplies. The deadline for printers' bids falls at 2 p. m. today. One offer already has been filed and at least one more is expected, O'Hanlon said.

FROM THE local voters' standpoint, the top proposition in the list of special questions and issues is an initiative ordinance seeking to repeal the city income tax.

The proposition had a long, tangled history before it finally won a ballot place through hearings in two courts.

Trades and Labor Council filed the proposition in August 1962, seeking to repeal the income tax of eight - tenths of one per cent which Council had passed the preceding spring. City Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate, with whom the petitions were filed, ruled that they did not qualify for a ballot place.

TRADES COUNCIL took its case to Common Pleas Court at Lisbon, which ruled that the petitions were proper and the issue should be placed on the ballot. By that time, it was too late for a vote at the 1962 general election.

The city then appealed the Common Pleas Court decision to the 7th District Court of Appeals. The district court also ruled in the labor group's favor in a decision handed down early last May.

The city decided against taking the issue to the State Supreme Court, in effect accepting the district court's ruling and allowing the question to go onto the ballot.

The income tax issue has been voted upon here on four or five previous occasions since the first such ordinance was enacted in 1958. In the last vote two years ago, it made its best showing, losing by little more than 100 votes.

O'HANLON pointed out that subdivisions have until Sept. 14 to file other special questions and issues under the state's Uniform Tax Law.

The list of special issues already filed includes a proposed amendment to the state constitution providing for a continuance of a new cigarette tax to finance a $250 million bond issue for highway improvements. It was placed on the ballot by the State Legislature.

Other special issues already filed are:

Southern Local School District: A $250,000 bond issue to build a junior high addition to the new

Bandits Stop British Train, Get $3 Million

Masked Gang Pulls Largest Rail Haul In English History

CHEDDINGTON, England (AP) —A gang of 20 to 30 masked men held up the Glasgow-London mail train today and the postoffice said the loss may exceed a million pounds ($2.8 million).

The bandits made off with about 120 bags of registered mail. Included in it was a large quantity of used but valid currency which was being returned to be reprocessed.

A shipment of diamonds also was believed lost.

It was the biggest and boldest train robbery in British history.

The biggest cash robbery in U.S. history was the hijacking of a mail truck that yielded $1,551,227 outside Plymouth, Mass., last Aug. 15.

The bandits stopped the train about 3 a.m. at a rural crossing 40 miles northwest of London. They covered the green signal at the crossing with a glove and put batteries behind the red signal to light it. They also cut railway telephone wires.

When engineer Jack Mills, 57, stopped the diesel engine, some of the gang attacked him and his assistant while others smashed windows of the first two mail coaches and climbed aboard.

Traffic Violator Called Threat

By WARREN C. NELSON
Director Department of Highway Safety

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A man walks down the street brandishing a revolver on a warm summer evening. Suddenly an entire neighborhood recognizes him as a dangerous character who is imperiling their lives.

Let the same individual, without a gun, get behind the steering wheel of a weapon much more lethal; race his motor; spin his wheels, and go hurtling around the corner.

The same observers may remar complacently, "If he isn't a little more careful, he'll crack up and hurt himself."

Until public opinion becomes convinced that automobiles are dangerous weapons, law enforcement agencies cannot adequately protect drivers and their victims from thoughtless and careless use of that weapon.

Traffic dangers will not go away on their own. Quite the contrary, they will increase. More automobiles and more drivers traveling more and more miles on business and pleasure are creating roadway hazards unthought of a few years ago.

Carefully designed highways lose their effectiveness unless each motorist realizes that he is armed with a weapon potentially more dangerous than the most potent firearm.

Perhaps greater fear of appearing in traffic court should be created. If that is the device that will stop the slaughter, it should be used. Traffic experts can exert every effort to arouse the public, but many drivers still will not take this seriously unless something drastic brings them to their senses.

Injury and fatality records would diminish if the public would view the traffic violator, the drunken driver, the death - car driver on a par with the man who waves a menacing pistol.

Driving is a privilege, not a right. Every motorist has an obligation to himself, his family, his friends and complete strangers to make his vehicle perform in a manner that will bring harm to no one.

6 Communities To Elect

Total For Village Contests Declines With 40 Entered

Forty candidates filed with the County Election Board before the deadline Wednesday at 5 p. m. to seek ballot spots for nonpartisan election of officials in the county's six small villages at the Nov. 5 general election.

The number of aspirants in the communities under 2,000 population is down 29 from the 69 who entered for the last similar election in 1961.

The nonpartisan elections will be held in Salineville, Hanoverton, New Waterford, Rogers, Summitville and Washingtonville.

There are nine ticket vacancies in three of the communities, which means the offices will be filled by write-in votes at the general election. Washingtonville lacks six candidates on its slate. There are two vacancies in Rogers and one in New Waterford.

No contests developed in Summitville, which means all the aspirants virtually are assured of election.

Salineville has a four-way race for two Council seats and a two-man race for mayor. Its candidates for treasurer and clerk are unopposed.

There are three - way races for mayor in Hanoverton, New Waterford and Washingtonville.

In each case, the villages will elect two councilmen. Those which have Boards of Trustees of Public Affairs will name three members.

Here are the slates:

SALINEVILLE

Mayor: Howard Wolfe and Stanley E. Fitch.

Clerk: S. R. Davis.

Treasurer: Myrtle T. Strabley.

Council: Mary Sweeney, Eugene Jarvis, Howard Ahlborn and Clarence E. Raffle.

Board of Trustees: R. Eugene Yohst, Howard Goddard and Cecil R. Carter.

HANOVERTON

Mayor: Howard W. Yeager, Clyde L. Knestrick and George H. Wilson.

Clerk: James J. Wilson.

Treasurer: L. E. Faloon.

Council: Gladys Boyce, Mervin

5 Seek Lone Trustee Post For Liverpool

St. Clair's Contest Unchanged At 4 In Nonpartisan Voting

Two new candidates entered for Liverpool Township trustee posts Wednesday afternoon, shortly before the County Election Board rang down the curtain on filing of nonpartisan aspirants for the Nov. 5 general election.

The two new entrants raised to five the field seeking one trustee's seat. St. Clair Township's field for one trustee post was left unchanged at four.

The Election Board listed a total of 84 candidates for trustee and clerk posts in 18 townships. Liverpool is the only township in the county which will not elect a clerk this year.

Liverpool elects differently because its clerk's post was filled in an "off-year" when the township and the city of East Liverpool were "divorced" in the 1940's.

The new Liverpool Township trustee candidates are:

Wilbert P. Taylor of Price St., bailiff of Municipal Court, former greenhouse operator and one-time police constable in the township.

Richard T. Judge, 1185 Allen Ave., Hoffman Addition, an employe of the Burbick Hardware Store and a former Columbiana County deputy sheriff.

Earlier candidates for the Liverpool post were Frank Gray of Lisbon St. Ext., the incumbent, and Thomas F. Deem and Rob-

Truck Hit By Boxcar, Shoved Into Another

LISBON — A dirverless parked truck was hit by a boxcar on a switching freight Wednesday afternoon and shoved into another parked rig, but no one was injured, Police Chief Leon Zahrndt reported.

In the mishap at 2:57 along the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad tracks near the Ohio Hoist Co., the switching freight bumped a Commercial Freight Lines truck which had been parked by Paul Barnett Jr. of Canton and shoved it 120 feet into another parked rig owned by Harry Peroman of Pittsburgh, the chief said.

Chief Zahrndt said the Commercial Freight rig was parked near the Ohio Hoist plant, but too close to the tracks, causing it to be hit by the freight. Neither driver was in his cab at the time, he added. The train crew was comprised of O. J. Kline, engineer, and S. P. Hockett, conductor, both of Niles.

Road Mishaps Cause Injury To 6 Women

An area woman was hospitalized after a traffic mishap in Calcutta and five young women, four of them from East Liverpool, suffered minor injuries in another accident Wednesday near New Garden.

Mrs. Gladys Straight, 48, of R. D. 3 was in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital with a back injury suffered at 4:20 p. m. yesterday in a collision at the intersection of Route 170 and County Rd. 428 in Calcutta.

The State Highway Patrol said Mrs. Straight was a passenger in a car operated by William M. Straight, 57, which was involved in a collision with an auto driven by Charles Roy Baker, 19, of 213 Jackson St.

The patrol said Baker was headed south on Route 170 and Straight pulled from a parking lot, crossed County Rd. 428 and was preparing to turn onto Route 17 when the crash occurred.

Baker was cited for operating an unsafe vehicle, the patrol said.

The patrol said it had no details of the one-car crash on Route 172 near the intersection with Route 9 at New Garden in which the young women were injured about 10 p. m.

A report of the accident will be filed tonight, the patrol said it was advised by the women.

Treated at City Hospital were: Miss Esther Clark, 21, of 1610 Maine Blvd., driver, abrasions of the nose, cheek, elbow and knee; Miss Carol Bernardo, 18, of the

Posts In Chester, Newell Ask Seized 'Slots' Return

Officers of American Legion Posts in Newell and Chester have moved for recovery of 15 slot machines seized on their properties in raids by West Virginia State Police July 6.

Petitions asking Judge James G. McClure for a writ of mandamus compelling State Police to release the "one - armed bandits" have been filed in Hancock County Circuit Court in New Cumberland.

Hearings on the writs asked by officers of each post are slated Saturday morning at 9 in Circuit Court.

Donald DeLong, listed as second vice commander, filed the petition for Newell Post 114 in an attempt to recover six slot machines seized in the raid — two of the 10-cent variety, two quarter machines, and one each that require deposits of 50 cents and a nickle to operate.

William Mountjoy, commander, is seeking the writ for Chester Post 121, where police officers impounded nine slot machines—four of the 5-cent variety, two quarter machines, two dime machines, and 1 50-center.

Their petitions ask that the slot machines be released from the custody of Cpl. C. W. Tighe of State Police Headquarters in Weirton. The machines are stored in the barracks.

DeLong of Newell and Edward L. Huff of Chester were cited at the respective posts on charges of keeping and exhibiting gaming devices, but the charges were later dismissed at hearings before Squire Thomas Bellanco.

The petitions prepared by Atty. Richard W. Barnes of the Wellsburg law firm of Pinsky, Mahan & Barnes, declare that Squire Bellanco has ordered the return of the property.

The gaming charge against Huff was dismissed when a State Police officer from southern West Virginia, who was a member of

Deadline's Saturday For Real Estate Tax

LISBON — With the deadline Saturday for the collection of second-half 1962 real estate taxes, County Treasurer Vincent C. Judge said today $858,900 has been collected to date, with over half still unpaid. The office still has a lot of mail to be opened but it is not expected to bring it up to half of the amount due.

After deadline Saturday noon, a penalty must be paid.

The treasurer pointed out that statements are mailed as a courtesy and an aid to the collection of taxes. If a taxpayer does not receive a statement, he nevertheless is subject to a penalty under Ohio Law if he fails to meet the deadline.

Safecrackers Get $100 In IBOP Offices

Using chisels and sledge hammers, burglars cut a hole through a brick wall to enter a huge safe in the headquarters of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters on Route 7 Wednesday night or early today, but obtained only about $100.

Robert Beresford, chief deputy in Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan's office, is investigating the entry of the union's new international headquarters, located near the Beaver Local High School.

The intruders ransacked the offices of E. L. Wheatley, international president, and Charles L. Jordan, secretary - treasurer, causing property damage far in excess of the money they obtained. The deputy commented that very little cash is kept at the IBOP Building. The intruders overlooked $30 on the floor of the safe.

The burglars battered a 15-x-12-inch hole in a brick wall to enter the safe. Evidence showed that they first attempted to cut a hole through acoustical tile in the ceiling to enter the safe, but quit when they found another ceiling underneath the tile.

Deputy Beresford said the burglars entered the building by forcing a basement door, then went upstairs into the building proper.

In Wheatley's office, a filing cabinet was torn apart and ransacked in a search for money. Desks and cabinets were ransacked in other offices, but the heaviest damage occurred in Jordan's quarters, the deputy reported.

Using a sledge hammer, the intruders battered the lock assembly off a door leading into a storage closet about 12 feet long.

3rd St. Crash Hurts Woman In Texas Auto

A Texas woman was injured and a 16-year-old district motorist was cited as the aftermath of a two-way collision Wednesday on W. 3rd St. at Jefferson St., police reported.

Mrs. Doris Crutchfield, 42, was examined at City Hospital for possible neck injuries following a collision that involved a 1963 sedan driven by her husband, D. L. Crutchfield, 52, of Ft. Worth and a 1962 sedan operated by Larry W. Bickle, 16, of Shadyside Ave., officers said.

A passenger in Bickle's car, Gary Lee Masters, 15, of Richmond, Ohio said he would go to his family physician for examination.

The Shadyside youth was cited into Juvenile Court as a traffic offender on a charge of failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Crutchfield told police he was

'First Robins' Have Been Sighted

An announcement that 13 business executives have formed the Business-Industry Political Action Committee to help congressional candidates in the 1964 election is a "first robin" sign of next year's coming event.

It was announced the same day that the Republican Citizens Committee of the United States was creating a citizens' council to formulate policy positions independently of the party's national committee and its congressional delegation—another "first robin" of 1964.

In the months ahead, many similar attempts to stratify voters inside both parties and to establish policy beach-heads that might be appealing to independents will be made. This is the way the party system works.

The prime significance of the Business-Industry Political Action Committee is, obviously, financial. It is patterned after the Political Action Committee of AFL-CIO, which brings financial leverage to bear on congressional races.

Its leverage is engineered to close tolerances. It is chiefly interested in contests that promise to be close because they were close in the preceding election. The application of a substantial sum of money or a forceful push in the right place at the right moment can make a world of difference. Business leaders will use the same technique.

The trick is to apply the leverage and give the push legally and effectually.

It's hardly what the early toilers in the political vineyward had in mind, but that's the way it's done. That's the way it has to be done to meet the competition. In politics as in war, every new weapon gives rise to a counterweapon.

Back To The Central Fact

When all the marching up and down and going in and about and around and out have been done, the central fact in the railroad dispute over work rules is the federal government's firm determination to have no stoppage of rail service.

The right to strike is restricted by this determination, which is backed by the force of popular opinion. Otherwise, President Kennedy could not maintain his position that the rail dispute, which had not been settled by a presidential commission, or the special machinery of the Railway Labor Act, should go to Congress and perhaps ultimately to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Secretary of Labor Wirtz has insisted throughout the dispute that face - to - face negotiating is the only way out, even after the Kennedy administration had turned over the dispute to Congress. It is reassuring, therefore, that negotiating has been resumed.

It is absurd to ask any railroad union to bargain its employes' livlihood away. But it is not absurd to expect that a railroad union should negotiate the best settlement it can make when its members' jobs are diminishing.

That has been the responsibility of many other union negotiators. It is the responsibility of the men currently negotiating for the best settlement they can get for the railroad firemen whose services no longer are required, as well as for those firemen whose services will continue to be needed.

Give with one hand and take away with the other.

That seems to be the prospect if and when a tax reduction and reform bill wins congressional approval.

The House Ways and Means Committee, where all revenue measures most originate, is reported to have decided, at least tentatively, to end the deduction for state and local gasoline taxes, cigarette taxes and auto licenses.

This doubtless is just a start toward trying to recapture some of the billions that will be lost if tax rates are reduced.

There is no denying the fact that tax loopholes cost the federal government millions every year. But more often than not, the people who gain are those who can best afford to pay. They know the angles or can afford to hire tax lawyers who do.

But the great mass of taxpayers who depend on relatively small deductions to reduce the bit on their already modest incomes should not be called upon to bear a disproportionate portion of the "reform" burden.

If a tax cut is needed to stimulate the economy, let's have it. If some people are taking unfair advantage of our tax laws or are actually cheating, let's crack down.

But let's not deprive the millions in the middle income brackets of the few fair and equitable privileges they have.

Swinging The Money Club

The federal government operates through the sum total of the taxes paid by all the country's taxpayers.

A portion—just how much we do not know—of those taxes comes from the 11 states of the Old Confederacy.

Some of the billions in federal tax money is filtered back to the states—just how much nobody knows because there are so many indeterminate factors. Politics, for example.

Now the Kennedy administration is getting ready to use the "money tree" as a weapon to force desegregation in federally backed programs.

This would mean selective cutoff of financial aid to states, localities and other balking recipients—in effect, the South.

Implied, or actually expressed, will be the threat that cash, loan guarantees or other aid would be withheld from uncooperative" recipients on a program-by-program basis.

Quite aside from the virtues of integration and equality for all, which this newspaper has persistently supported as right and just, we do not believe that tax money should be used to beat into submission those taxpayers who believe otherwise.

If there isn't a more equitable and effective way to achieve social justice, this country indeed has fallen to the low state of exacting punishment by confessing its own weakness to stimulate reason, persuasion and education.

We wonder what would happen if the taxpayers in the states of the Old Confederacy would refuse to pay their federal income taxes in protest.

Any Doubt Was Short-Lived

Ten years ago, the moon-faced man who then was premier of the Soviet Union, Georgi M. Malenkov, was writing a speech for the Supreme Soviet. It was to be delivered Aug. 8 and was designed to be a summing up of things in general.

When he began to talk on Aug. 8, no one had any inkling of the surprise in store. Tacked to the end of a long address, as if it might have been an after-thought, was this enigmatic statement: "The government deems it necessary to report to the Supreme Soviet that the U.S. has no monopoly in the production of the hydrogen bomb, either . . . Convincing facts are shattering the wagging of tongues about the weakness of the Soviet Union."

Skeptics scoffed. Know-it-alls sniffed. But Malenkov, now in political distrace, knew what was coming. On Aug. 20, the Soviet Union exploded a hydrogen bomb, it announced, and a few days later the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission confirmed the announcement.

The H-bomb monopoly had been broken. Previously, three atomic blasts had been detected between 1949 and 1951, evidence that the Soviet Union had broken the A-bomb monopoly.

Great Britain exploded its first hydrogen bomb May 15, 1957. France is believed to be several years away from exploding its first H-bomb. Red China is an indeterminate time away from qualifying for membership in the nuclear club.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., thought China might explode an H-bomb "anytime within this year"—early in 1962. Premier Khrushchev told Averell Harriman, U.S. undersecretary of state, he didn't think China would have nuclear capabilities anytime in the foreseeable future.

Anyone want to guess how many nations will be in the nuclear club by 1970?

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

The idea of controlling the weather is one of those things that seem wonderful at first blush but upon further thought turn out to hold terrible snares and dilemmas.

The way it is now, with nature taking its course, everybody complains at one time or another, but if the weather were controlled everybody would complain all the time because theoretically something could be done about their complaints.

Thus, it is consoling to get the word from none other than such an authority as Dr. Francis Wilton Reichelderfer, retiring after 25 years as chief of the U.S. Weather Bureau, that weather control is unlikely within the foreseeable future.

He says experts know only about five per cent of what they would need to know about the atmosphere to predict rainfall accurately, let alone control it.

WE CAN AGREE that forecasting the weather is a good thing when it works and that destructive forces such as gale winds, hurricanes, typhoons and tornadoes are natural enemies we would like to control.

But when it comes to everyday weather, that is a different thing. Any control of ordinary weather would result in disagreements which would make the U.N. Security Council seem like a seminar or theology.

This opinion was recently reinforced by some acquaintances who come back to their northern home from one of the nation's so-called sunny southern seacoast states and said they did not like the monotony, heat and dryness of the weather there.

"Sure, the sky was blue all the time," they said, "but not as pretty a blue as we have here at home."

Some of us like our weather spiced with occasional thunderheads and lightning for variety. And that's that about the weather.

Chile Seen As Base For Communists

By Victor Riesel

VALPARAISO, Chile

Out there in the South Pacific, 8 hours' flight from here in an old seaplane, are Robinson Crusoe's two Juan Fernandez Islands known as "Mas Afuera" (Further Out) and "Mas a Dentro" (Further In). A couple of hundred years after he found that famous footprint on the sands of time some Communist leaders came. But not willingly. Under a special security law passed in 1951 they were being exiled to the famed islands and to a black hole of a desert port up north known as Pisagua.

Victor Riesel

Under that law they could not hold office in unions or the government. But in 1958 the ban was suddenly withdrawn.

Today the Communists control the biggest central labor federation in Chile. They dominate miners' unions and teachers' and students' federations.

The old line Communist leaders now have only one real problem. Their young people want to take to the hills and start a revolution, so strong is the youthful reverence for Fidel Castro and Mao Tse-tung.

But the veterans feel that they can take over Chile through their coalition with the violence-spouting Socialists.

THIS COALITION controls the nitrate and iron ore diggers as well as the miners at lodes known to be the world's greatest reservoir of copper.

Then with orderly Chile as a base, the Communists are convinced they can, in turn, become the front for a Communist continental labor movement controlling all Latin labor.

Can they accomplish this by creating a Marxist industrial and transport labor alliance which could paralyze the continent and stall the Alliance for Progress?

For the answer to this question I drove out to this port to see a hardy, anti-Communist longshoremen's leader, Wenceslao Moreno. He is head of the Maritime Confederation of Chile (COMACH).

I put the question to him as we walked the South Pacific waterfront. Senor Moreno thought it possible. He asserted firmly that his own federation of 32 unions is under constant Communist attack.

He revealed he had documents to prove that Moscow's own maritime specialists believe the Chilean docks to be as prime a target as was Cuba's waterfront.

Moreno said his federation, made up of the strongest anti-Communist unions in Chile, was fighting back but at odds greater than the chances of Fidel Castro defecting to Miami.

THE COMMUNIST labor apparatus in Chile, Moreno estimated, had more than 3,000 activists. This is the greatest such Communist concentration in any country outside the iron and bamboo curtains except for France and Italy.

They are well equipped. They turn up everywhere from Concepcion, the Pittsburgh of Chile, to the isolated desert areas. This reveals heavy expenditures of money, for they have cars—and a 1938 auto goes for over $1,000 here.

Yet Senor Moreno's anti-Communist maritime federation has virtually no equipment, though he was promised two cars by some of his North American friends who appear to have forgotten they gave their word.

Just two cars would enable Moreno to put anti-Communist organizing units in the north and south. But our side never appears to have even petty cash by our standards. The Communist-Socialist coalition, for example, has eight transport union leaders touring Chile.

They are the advance guard of a new campaign of left-wing Socialists and Communists to build a continental transport labor federation. Because this drive has gone unreported, and to prove that the Marxist coalition never has any trouble raising big sums, I want to disclose this latest activity.

During the last few days of May this coalition held a transport union conference in Rio de Janeiro. There was money for a hall and for expensive transcontinental travel for "delegates."

THEY DECIDED to issue a call for a new Central American-Caribbean-South American conference of leaders of railroad, aviation and maritime unions.

This call went out on June 3. One of its cosigners is Edmundo Polanco Elgueta, chairman of the Industrial Railroad Federation of Chile. He is a militant Marxist who has been quite comradely received in Peking.

It must be pointed out that these trips to Havana, Moscow and Peking delight the labor leaders. They live in luxury on the ideological journey and just love it. It is one way the Sino-Soviet bloc has of repaying its sympathizers.

At the moment the Marxist coalition has scores of men touring Latin America. They will report in by the first week in September. The convention will be held shortly thereafter and the Socialist-Communist combine will declare war on the continent's anti-Communist unions.

If the leftwing is successful, it will be in a position to sabotage the Alliance for Progress on which the United States is spending half a billion dollars.

And against this apparatus, all Senor Moreno wants is two automobiles, vintage not a problem, just so they can carry organizers into the hinterland. Yet his pleas are as unheard as the sound of the ice current which flows swiftly up from the Antarctic. Why?

Odd Facts

During the U. S. economic depression of the 1830's, there was a demand for a law banning all new inventions, on the grounds that new machines would rob too many workers of their jobs. Despite this, however, this period saw the invention of the steam locomotive, the harvester, the telegraph, the sewing machine, and the process of vulcanizing rubber.

According to the findings of some scientists, the ancient Egyptians of almost 9,000 years ago used iron from meteors to make tools and weapons.

A Hollow Treaty

By David Lawrence

Some Questions For Khrushchev

Every line in the treaty just signed in Moscow banning certain nuclear tests can be acclaimed and approved except one — and that line contains the signature of the Soviet government, headed by Premier Khrushchev.

David Lawrence

Hardly had the ink been dry on the treaty signed between the East and West, when the Soviet premier in a speech publicly reiterated the hypocrisy which runs through the policy and acts of the Moscow regime in various parts of the world. He said:

"We are deeply convinced of the advantages of socialism, communism, and do not conceal this conviction. No treaties and agreements between states can overcome the radical contradictions that exist between the two coexisting social systems.

"But we, the Soviet people, firmly hold the position that social and class questions, the questions of internal social and political systems, should be settled not through war between the states, but by the peoples of every country without any interference from outside."

Why did the Soviet regime interfere in Cuba, why did it send missiles there, why does it still maintain approximately 15,000 troops there and why have the Communist "technicians" — trained in everything from social philosophy to military operations — been virtually controlling the Cuban government in the last several months?

Why has the Soviet government continued to maintain troops and exercise authority over puppet regimes in Poland, Romania, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and East Germany?

WHY, ALSO, have Communist-trained students and agitators been involved in stirring up demonstrations and bloodshed between factions in Venezuela, Ecuador and Argentina, as well as in several other countries of Central and South America?

It's an established rule of international law that there should be no interference from the outside in the internal affairs of any sovereign state. Lip service has been given again and again by Premier Khrushchev and his stooges to the doctrine of "self-determination." It has been warmly supported in his speeches crusading against colonialism.

Only this week, however, the double standard practiced by Mr. Khrushchev was given moral support by the United Nations itself, which professes to safeguard the independence of its member nations.

Yet the U.N. interferes in the internal affairs of the Republic of South Africa, which has adopted a racial - segregation policy disliked by the governments of other African countries whose population is predominantly Negro.

Even the United States government, which has again and again proclaimed that internal affairs should not be intruded upon by the U.S., did not have the temerity last week to vote against the resolution of the African countries in the Security Council interfering in the Portugal's internal affairs but merely abstained from voting.

The United Press International, in a dispatch from U. N. headquarters in New York on Aug. 2, quoted Adlai Stevenson, the American representative, as saying that he feels the Republic of South Africa "is failing to carry out its obligations under the U. N. Charter" in continuing to deny Africans political rights. Mr. Stevenson added:

"By stopping the sale of arms to South Africa we will emphasize our hope that that republic will now reassess its attitude on 'apartheid' (segregation) in the light of numerous appeals from the U.N. and from member states such as the United States."

THE DISPATCH concludes: "Stevenson said the United States is prepared to meet with other U.N. members and with the foreign ministers of African states to discuss what can be done about South Africa and racial segregation."

So who is interfering in "questions of internal social and political systems"? Has the United States been contradicting its professed policy of non-interference in the domestic affairs of other countries?

Hasn't Mr. Khrushchev been insisting on the right to interfere secretly not only in Africa but in Cuba and South America?

Of what avail is any treaty, no matter how meritorious its professions of worthy purposes, if the signer is himself guilty of deception and carries on clandestinely an active interference in the affairs of a country only 90 miles away from the southern coast of the United States?

If Ambassador Stevenson's declarations about interference in South Africa's internal affairs are upheld by President Kennedy and the State Department, the American people at least will have the chance in the next election to repudiate the administration but no such opportunity is given the people of the Soviet Union.

Mr. Khrushchev's acts are law, and hence his government's signature on the nuclear-test treaty becomes meaningless because it's the act really of a ruler who announces that he will not interfere in internal affairs but does so just the same.

All the world is asked to swallow as sincere not only the doctrines of non-interference but the pledges Premier Khrushchev has given to carry out the ban on certain kinds of nuclear testing.

Test Ban Blessings

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Voting for the limited nuclear test ban treaty is a little like being against sin. The Senate figures to approve it. As of now the whole thing looks cut and dried.

When the Senate wrecked President Wilson's treaty for putting the United States in the League of Nations in 1919, there were several reasons, political, personal and this:

It meant abandoning this country's historic isolation. And the United States wasn't ready. It took another world war to do that. But there are none of those difficulties in the nuclear test treaty.

This country has preached some such agreement for years. This doesn't mean there are not some problems. But they are not so full of tiger's teeth as those of 1919. Good evidence is the attitude of the Kennedy administration.

It shows no signs of anxiety about the outcome. Democrats and Republicans are expected to team up to provide the necessary two-thirds Senate vote after giving the treaty the full business with hearings and debate.

President Kennedy arranged to send the treaty, signed last Monday with Russia and Britain, to the Senate today. There next Monday the Foreign Relations Committee begins two or three weeks of hearings. Debate on the Senate floor is expected to last about a week.

Besides questioning those for and against, any skeptical senators in search of gimmicks can quiz administration officials on every verb and comma. The administration says there are no gimmicks.

Some senators in both parties have hemmed and hawed about the position they will take. The Joint Chiefs of Staff will leave little room for reservations if they give their blessing, as they probably will.

The treaty isn't complicated. It has an agreement and an out.

It prohibits nuclear tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under the sea. But it permits continued testing underground. Kennedy said this country will go on testing that way. So will the Russians, no doubt.

This is the out: Any nation signing the agreement can cancel it by giving three months' notice. Any nation which cancels without good reason will have world opinion against it, if that matters. It didn't go to the Russians in 1961.

That year — after they, the Americans and British had abstained voluntarily from testing for three years—the Russians suddenly announced they would resume. But that was only a voluntary moratorium.

It lacked the formal agreement of a treaty. The United States knew all this history when it signed the treaty Monday.

The escape clause may be highly useful to the United States or Russia in a few years, if they need it. For instance, if one or the other gets fed up with testing by the French or Red Chinese, neither of whom will sign this treaty.

True, the escape arrangement might benefit either side which wanted to play sneaky.

Negroes Feel Anger

Lifetime Of 'Jim Crow' Earns Resentment

By JUNIUS GRIFFIN

"We are not something from 'Porgy and Bess'. . . we want to share equally with our white brothers—yes, brothers."

These are the words of Herbert Fielding, businessman and a leader of the Negro community of Charleston, S.C.

An official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Fielding prides himself on being a moderate. But he sums up the temptation to violence, the angers that many American Negroes feel in this summer of crisis.

"The Negro is mad," he says, "not angry, but mad and filled with a hate he has nourished for almost a lifetime."

The feeling is echoed in the North as a Negro youth suddenly snatches a white woman's handbag and flings it into the street.

"I did it because I hate white people," he explains.

You hear the word "hate" again and again as Negroes, packed into the ghettos of Harlem and Washington, try to articulate their feelings. In Savannah and Charleston you hear it once more.

In Columbia, S.C., a Negro talks of his "intense dislike" of the white man.

In Charlotte, N.C., a Negro says simply: "We dislike the white man, but he's doing better."

North and South animosity is a palpable thing. In the South because the Negro feels the weight of "Jim Crow" laws, written and unwritten; in the North because he faces discrimination when he wants to get a job or live in certain neighborhoods.

Hosea Williams, 37, head of the Chatham County Voters League in Savannah, said: "We Negroes weren't born hating the white man. We have cultivated this hatred and nourished it for years hoping that one day he would make us ashamed of ourselves. But he hasn't. He has given us pride . . . pride to protest and if necessary to tell him to go to hell if he doesn't allow us full and equal opportunities."

Williams said that he once worked for the NAACP, "but, I became too hot for them, or rather too radical. I don't believe in tomorrow. I want equal rights for my people now. If necessary, I intend to die in Georgia fighting for what I believe is right and to leave my children an honorable legacy."

In Charleston, NAACP official Fielding delights in talking about the historical beauty of the city and its traditions.

"The white man's great failing here is that he doesn't know that his Negro neighbors are just as prideful, stubborn, and sensitive about this great city as they are," he said.

Of the deepening racial crisis, Fielding said: "We are at the bottom, the end of the rope. The only way the Negro can go is up. And if we must fight to get there, both races will wear the battle scars for generations to come."

The Rev. I. Dequincey Newman, NAACP state field secreatry, foresees a long and bitter fight for Negroes in Charleston and other parts of South Carolina.

"If the white man had any sincere desire about ending this problem, he would take down the barriers of segregation and allow responsible Negro leaders to concentrate on preparing the poor an impoverished Negro for the role he is to play in our new society," Newman said.

"We no longer ask the Negro masses not to hate," Newman added. "We tell him that if he must hate he should try to show a little mercy. This is a harsh but realistic view."

In Columbia, Dr. Howard E. Wright, president of Allen University, an all-Negro school, said "The task of helping our students to face the realities of our times is just as important as sending them out into the world with an academic education.

"The racial tempo here is such that any incident in a downtown restaurant or store can cause our students to drop their books and take to the streets. It's too bad that I can't join them. I can't tell them that everything will work itself out. This would be a lie."

Charlotte, N.C., has eased racial barriers in hotels, restaurants, schools and recreational facilties, but still is plagued with racial problems in hospitals and in job opportunities.

Dr. Reginald A. Hawkins, a Charlotte dentist and ordained Presbyterian minister, says: "I served in World War II and the Korean War and I have no intention of stopping my people's fight for equal rights. We want those rights now, not gradually . . . but now."

Dr. Emory L. Rann, a Charlotte physician and leading Negro moderate, has spoken against racial demonstrations.

"Our demonstrations have simply outgrown their usefulness," Rann said. "It is now time we started negotiating with the city council. I don't see what good we can now derive from an ugly incident which could occur during a demonstration."

Rann stands almost alone in Charlotte's Negro community.

There also is a split between what Negroes call "ceremonial leaders" and others who are close to the pulse of America's Negro masses.

Ceremonial leaders are described by the Negroes as those who stay away from the underprivileged within their own race and who have lost contact with the Negro people.

South Africa Expected To Keep Racism

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —South Africa is expected to stick to its apartheid policy of racial segregation despite the U.N. Security Council's call for a worldwide arms embargo against the South African government.

There were indications that all U.N. members would not enforce the embargo. Secretary of State J. Rudolph Grimes of Liberia warned that African members would seek stronger measures in November unless South Africa changes its racial policy.

The embargo call was the key provision of a resolution the council adopted Wednesday by a 9-0 vote after debating apartheid for a week at the request of 32 African countries.

Britain and France abstained on the vote. Both have announced they are not shipping any arms to South Africa which, as Britain put it, "would enable the policy of apartheid to be enforced."

However, French Delegate Roger Seydoux of France called the resolution interference in South Africa's domestic affairs. Sir Patrick Dean of Britain said his government reserved its position on an all-inclusive embargo because of its defense commitments to South Africa.

Both Dean and Charles W. Yost of the United States said they did not regard the council's embargo call as compulsory for U.N. members. But the United States has announced it will ship no arms to South Africa after the end of this year.

Speakers in the debate had complained that South Africa had ignored 27 other U.N. resolutions against its racial policies dating back to 1946.

South African delegate Matthys I. Botha, a silent observer during the discussion, withheld comment on the new resolution. But Eric Louw, South African foreign minister, in rejecting an invitation to join in the debate, charged council consideration of the issue was "interference in South Africa's domestic affairs."

Federal Workers Eat Fudge For Diabetes Detection Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal workers in nine cities have been munching on fudge bars on company time. But they're not fudging on Uncle Sam. Rather, they are trying to help him—and you.

The candy consumptionis part of a Public Health Service screening test to detect diabetes. To date, 50,000 bars have been consumed by 25,000 workers since July 1960 in Washington; Dallas; Denver; Boston; New York; Kansas City, Mo.; Greenbelt, Md.; Alexandria, Va., and Belle Mead, N. J.

This scientific fudge-eating, followed by a blood test, is designed to get a relatively quick gauge of a person's ability to assimilate sugar once it's introduced into the body in the form of food. In diabetes, the body's mechanism for properly handling sugar is defective, and a high blood-sugar is usually a sign of the ailment.

Using a device called an "Auto Analyzer" which handles up to 60 blood samples an hour, doctors on the project can quickly spot suspicious cases. Then, more definite tests are done either by project doctors or by referral to family physicians.

Reporting on the first year of screening activities in Washington and Dallas where 15,535 employes, representing 31 federal departments or agencies volunteered for the test, project doctors gave these results in Public Health Reports, a health service journal:

More than 1,600 screened "positive"; that is, there blood plasma showed enough sugar to raise suspicions.

Of these, 1,313 were given a more definitive test.

Finally, 210 cases of diabetes were diagnosed—a rate of 13.5 per 1,000 population.

Taxpayers Gave Up Record Amount For IRS Centennial

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

SMASHING CENTENNIAL: American taxpayers helped the Internal revenue Service celebrate its 100th birthday by pouring a record tax take—$105.9 billion—into federal coffers in the fiscal year which ended June 30.

The Treasury bonanza included a new high for individual income and employment taxes, $67.9 billion, and a $6.5-billion increase over fiscal 1962, when receipts totaled $99.4 billion.

BELLYACHE: Eighty-year-old Rep. Howard W. Smith, chairman of the House Rules Committee, Wednesday suffered what he called "a bellyache," but recovered sufficiently to leave the Capitol after treatment.

The Virginia Democrat told photographers and newsmen as he walked to his automobile after several hours in the office of Dr. George W. Calver, the congressional physician, that he'd call them "if I drop dead after getting home."

Calver said the congressman apparently had suffered a mild attack of food poisoning.

BAGMEN?: Edwin P. Neilan, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, says the spoils system in the federal government is "more sophisticated, more sinister, than ever before."

There is a public scandal in federal spending, the Delaware banker said in a speech Wednesday at the National Press Club, and voters in many cases have turned their congressmen into "bagmen"—a term used to describe rackets collectors.

Neilan said federal spending has been used as a bribing power to buy votes.

Kennedy

gency birth interrupted his White House routine.

The birth of the Kennedy's second son had all the excitement of a fictional drama.

It was the first time in 68 years that a baby was born to the wife of the President in office. It hadn't happened since the Cleveland era.

It was the 22nd grandchild in the family headed by Joseph P. Kennedy, 74, former ambassador to England. For the second time, Kennedy lost a race with the stork. He was about 40 minutes too late to be at Otis Air Force Base when his second son arrived Wednesday. And, in November 1960, when his first son, John Jr., was born some three weeks prematurely, Kennedy, flying back from Palm Beach, Fla., got the word in the air that the baby had been born at Georgetown University Hospital, again in a similar emergency situation.

The Kennedy's named the new baby Patrick, after the President's grandfather, and Bouvier, for Mrs. Kennedy's father, the late John V. Bouvier, a New York stock broker.

Because of the premature birth, the baby was baptized in the surgery room shortly after birth by the base Catholic Chaplain, the Rev. John Schahill of Portland, Maine.

This procedure is considered common practice in premature births, a White House spokesman said, and little Patrick will be christened formally later.

Mrs. Kennedy had brief glimpses of her new son. The last time, he was wheeled into her room in a special incubator by the President himself. And then, the infant was whisked off for a speedy ambulance dash to Boston, a trip that took a little more than one hour.

Doctors had decided he could get better medical treatment at the Children's Medical Center, which is considered one of the best hospitals in the country specializing in children's diseases.

There, the baby was placed in an Isolette, a machine that bridges the gap between the mother's womb and the outside world, keeping temperature and humidity at the best balance to facilitate breathing.

The medical problem of the Kennedy offspring was described as "idiopathic respiratory distress syndrome." In layman's language, it means the baby's lungs had not developed sufficiently to function properly outside the mother's womb.

It is not considered an unusual condition of premature babies, and even John Jr., who was born only some three weeks ahead of schedule in a similar emergency, had suffered a bit from it.

The new baby was born at 12:52 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time, after Mrs. Kennedy was rushed to the Air Force hospital by helicopter from her summer vacation home at Squaw Island, some 22 miles away. He weighed in at four pounds, 10½ ounces, and was 17 inches in length.

A staff member who saw the infant said he was "beautifully formed."

A flee can jump a distance of about a foot, although no higher than four or five inches. It is wingless, and lives on almost all animals and birds.

Then they broke into storage cabinets built along the wall, but found only records.

The burglary was reported to the sheriff's office in Lisbon at 7 this morning. "Based on the amount of damage done by the intruders, it was evident they were in the building "quite some time," the deputy said.

He said heavy chisels were used to cut through the wall into the safe. Smaller tools were used to force open the filing cabinets. An insurance company representative was surveying the damage late this morning.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Gals: The stuff that we keep under our kitchen sink needs tending, too!

Imagine if some of your neighbors came in and cleaned it out? Whatever would they say?

Gossip: "Now just why in this world did she keep that bottle of stuff? Here are three cans of so-and-so. Look at this old dirty thing!" And so it goes. You and I don't care, but for once let's stop and take a look at all this.

Get some newspapers. Put them on the floor of your kitchen and place EVERYTHING in the bottom of your cabinet on the newspaper. Some of these things make spots and rings on your linoleum and asphalt tile! Also . . . there is another reason for the newspapers.

When you get through cleaning out, throwing away, etc., you can just roll up these newspapers and put the whole kit and caboodle in your garbage and save more cleaning up, energy, etc.

-:-

WASH THE CABINET with a disinfectant. Then paint on some bug juice. If you happen to have roaches or insects crawling . . . now is the time.

Let this dry thoroughly.

Don't replace anything yet. While you are waiting for the cabinet to dry, put some more newspapers on your drainboard. REMOVE everything from that cabinet over your kitchen sink and lay it on the drainboard.

Wash, dry and "bug-ize" that cabinet, too.

While this is drying, heat the coffee pot. Relax. Have lunch, walk out the front door and just look at the clouds. Anything . . . but take a few minutes off. While you are gazing, think: "Housework is so complicated. Why?"

Then ask yourself: "Have I got too much?" The answer will probably be "yes."

WHEN YOU WALK back into the kitchen, think again: "Now, Heloise says never stoop when you don't have to. Look at all this stuff and I have to put it away."

Why do I keep that bottle of bleach, the soap powders, the soap-filled pads, the ammonia, etc., under the sink? Your answer will be "because my mother did, grandmother did and her mother did!"

Why did they?

Because they didn't have all these cabinets like we do today. That's why! And that's the same reason she boiled clothes and diapers . . . her mother did it. Guess we all try to copy mama, eh?

All right, mama and grandma aren't keeping your house. They aren't there to stoop for you. So why should you when you can avoid it?

Look at the pile of stuff sitting on your drainboard which came from your cupboard above your sink! What's there? Stuff you don't use three times a day!

What's on the floor? Things you use six times a day!

PUT THE BLEACH, furniture polish, soap pads, starch, ammonia, etc., things you use 20 times a day on the shelf above that sink. Saves you stooping and also has another reason. . . .

Many of these items are poison. Did you know that?

You may not have a baby in your own home at present but your friends will come in with children and grandchildren. Babies love to open cabinets and drag out pans and bottles. But, babies don't know if the bottles are poison or not.

All poison should be kept high out of reach of small fry.

These small fry have taught me to save my energy, too! Bless them. Since I moved my everyday cleaning compounds ABOVE my sink. . . . I haven't had backache!

Now, just what are you going Ito do with that "under - sink" cabinet?

Put the utensils you don't often use in it.

In most wooden cabinets and nearly all metal ones, I have never seen a shelf. If your husband won't build you one . . . build it yourself. I did!

YOU ALL CAN get wooden boxes at your grocery store for free. (They usually are glad to have them hauled off!) If you are no good with a hammer and saw, just turn the box sideways, cover it with foil and you will have another good shelf and your cabinet will hold twice as much.

If you do know how to "knock-a-box-down" (that means take the nails out), use the wide boards for the shelf and stack some bricks under each end of the board. This way you can get the exact height you need and it can be removed when you move. Or decide to rearrange it.

But by all means don't have a cabinet wasted. Most of these are about two feet tall. Just who can stack pans or boxes of stuff two feet deep? We need that extra shelf. Build yourself one. It's worth its weight in gold.

Ladies, these shelves under and over your cabinet should be lined with foil. It again reflects light! These cabinets are dark. I am well aware that you think foil is expensive. It is. But it needn't be wasted.

IT PAYS in the long run. It can be wiped with a sponge when it gets dirty and after using and reusing can be turned over next time you clean the cabinet, so in the long run it pays off. Don't scrimp here.

Neither does foil absorb odors. The lightweight foil is good, but the heavyweight is worth the difference you will pay, for it doesn't wrinkle as quickly as lightweight and won't have to be replaced as often.

I caution you . . . if you have wooden cabinets, put a piece of waxed paper down first to use as an underliner so that whatever you use as a liner won't stick. Waxed paper is inexpensive. Give here. Pays off later when you clean your shelves next time.

Let's get our homes clean, get rid of all the clutter. We spend most of our waking hours in the kitchen. Keep it simple.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

The Shredded Wit Of Alan Young

The man has a bird-like charm. You could identify him, I suppose, as a yellow-noggined wit or a beady-eyed buffoon. He feeds on persiflage and lives in a mockery.

Alan Gill

On screen (as "Mr. Ed's" Wilbur) and off screen (as comedian Alan Young), he is one of our better comic actors or acting comics. He also is an extremely likeable guy. When I lunched with him the other day, he was fresh off the plane from England, where he'd been performing in some comedy specials on British TV, and he was glad to be home.

-:-

(WITH THE WORD "home," we get into trouble, because Young was born in the town of Shields near the Scottish border, grew up in Canada, and now enjoys double citizenship in England and the U.S.A. under the G.I. "brides" law.)

"I realize now," he said, "what an American I am."

What went wrong across the drink? Well, that opening show of his started things off badly.

"I don't even remember what it was called," he said. "I'd suggested "The Alan Young Show," and they all looked at me strangely and then came up with 'Shredded Wit' and 'It's Young Again'—something like that.

"For a whole day, I remember, they worked on a tough prism shot that would be used with the credits. I thought, 'Good! They're so meticulous!' and I kept watching over their shoulders.

"AT 5:15, they had what they wanted and I said, 'May we rehearse the skits now and get the props ready?' They said, "Goodness, no! We must be off now. That's all we've had time for.'

"I said, 'But the show goes on tomorrow night and we don't even have the sets yet.' And they said, 'Mercy me, that's right!' and disappeared.

"The show was a disaster. The props were all wrong. Workmen were walking around in the background during the skits. The audience sat there silently above us and around us with that thumbs-down look about them.

"I felt like an early Christian. Afterwards, the network people said, 'I say, that was pretty bad! I Wonder what went wrong?' "

YOUNG'S succeeding shows, by the way, went nicely. And one sketch, which he's done on TV here, was a positive smash. In it, Young played a meek, little fellow sitting in the first row of the audience in a theater-in-the-round.

To his great embarrassment, he is caught continually in the spotlight; and soon he becomes involved in the action of the play. At the drama's end, he takes his bows with the cast and even received a bouquet of flowers. The English laughed till it hurt.

Despite his successes, though, Alan Young has some reluctant gripes concerning the general content of English television. Asked about the iconoclastic "That Was the Week That Was," Young said:

"It's high school comedy. It's a little boy thumbing his nose at the Queen when she's not looking. And they're also slamming at the United States—a kind of unfair slamming, throwing a rock and running. They call it satire, but it's just cheeky. It's filthy too."

AND THE REST of British television? Again, with reluctance, Young shrugged and said:

"I'm sorry. But for a country that invented TV, they're absolutely dirty—and early in the evening with the children watching. I'd rather see a cowboy show where a man falls off a horse with a knife sticking in his back (and that's not great stuff) than see one of those British melodramas involving a domestic triangle.

While Young heard some anti-Americanism on TV across the drink, he experienced genuine friendliness close to his birthplace in the North Country.

"A bus, loaded with people, would, stop on a country road where we were walking, and the driver would chat with us about where we came from. And he'd say, 'These southerners' (meaning the English south) 'are treatin' you badly, aren't they, lad?' "

THEN DOWN in Devon, the people recognized him suddenly as Wilbur, the chap with the talking horse. The local TV station had put on "Mr. Ed" for 13 weeks and then had dropped the show.

The hardy Devon people gave a roar that shook the earth and "Mr. Ed" was back on immediately. When they later ran into "Wilbur" himself, they asked the question people ask him everywhere, "How do you get the horse to talk?"

Suddenly, Alan Young felt at home.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Child Fails To Stick With Any Project

You may know the child who often says, "I can't do it," or "I don't know how," and will give up. And he's not always a dull child; he may be very smart, indeed. From Baltimore comes this letter about an eight-year-old: "My son, who is eight years of age, is causing me to be concerned because he gives up immediately on any project which becomes difficult, be it a puzzle, a game of cards or learning to swim or ride a bike. His mind is easily distracted; he does not concentrate too long if the problem or project is not easily solved or completed.

Dr. Garry Meyers

"HE SEEMS, also, to become easily confused if directions are not overly simplified. With all this, he is an excellent reader in school and well - behaved, interested in science, collects items on space and planets for a scrapbook and is likable.

"He does not play any ball games or sports — avoids anything competitive or challenging with the complaint, 'I don't know how', and soon gives up in frustration after trying.

"I have tried to look at the situation objectively and I refrain from any comments which might be critical (as much as possible). 'Leave him alone' is now my motto.

"I fear, however, that these characteristics have implanted themselves too deeply and will prevent him from enjoying many rewarding experiences in life."

My reply: Since that child does so well at school and can read so well, it seems to me you have good opportunities to stimulate his interest and to make him gain in intellectual confidence, especially if you read a great deal to him and with him.

WHEN HE HAS fears about learning simple physical activities or games, it would be desirable to help him gradually win success, especially when other children aren't present. I'm sure your child is fearful that others will think he can't do as well as they can.

I have a notion Dad can do a great deal for this boy in making and doing things with him. If the boy cares for himself and does regular jobs about the home, you have opportunities to guide him there and help him gain skills and enjoy successes."

Many other parents face like problems. The youngster at four, seven or older may not want to go down the slide or ride a bicycle or learn to roller - skate or swim or to play a game other children of his age play well. Also, in learning from books, he may quickly give up.

If, as often happens, this child has average or better than average skills in some other directions, his lack of self - confidence in a certain direction may frustrate or annoy his parent, who may express impatience and anger with him.

NO MATTER HOW well a child does in one or several other directions, if he lags and lacks confidence in any particular direction, he rarely will profit from pressures. He needs patient help in order to enjoy some successes and to continue to enjoy them.

So many times the child expressing lack of confidence dreads most to have his peers observe his failures. Undoubtedly, the boy described by that mother avoided participating in sports, games and other contests chiefly for this very reason.

Surely this whole problem calls for great insight, patience and skills in the parent. But it should prove a great challenge to her or him.

My bulletins, "Celebrate Your Child's Successes" and "The Child Who Is Shy", may be secured by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Social Security Aides Say Book Not Authorized

The district Social Security Administration offices of Walter Kimbro of East Liverpool and Joseph J. Lutz of Ambridge today warned against a new book of "tips" purporting to have been authorized by the SSA.

The publisher of the book, which is being widely advertised as containing exclusive information and "tips" on "How to get twice as much Social Security," states it has been cleared for accuracy "with the highest legal authority on the subject of Social Security benefit claims."

This book, the district managers said, has not been cleared.

The book, offered for sale at prices ranging from $1.99 to $5, contains advice which if followed might place a person in a worse rather than a better financial position, they said.

Taking some of the "tips" the book offers might lead to extensive delay in the payment of social security benefits, because all of the facts would have to be investigated before social security benefits could be paid.

"Responsible publishers of privately published books and pamphlets about Social Security," they pointed out, "make sure that their materials are technically accurate and up to date. Also, they do not try to promote sales with advertising materials indicating that the information they offer is not available elsewhere. Nor do they state or imply that a person might lose money by not buying the book they offer for sale."

They advised anyone who has a question as to the accuracy of a privately published book about Social Security to ask his Social Security office about it. They emphasized that there are many reliable privately published books about Social Security and that the publishers of these books perform a service to the public in helping the Social Security Administration to inform people about their rights and responsibilities under the Social Security law.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I've heard it said that marrying a divorced man is like buying a second-hand car. You just buy somebody else's trouble.

Is this true or not? I've discussed this with several friends and have collected a fascinating variety of opinions. I'd like to see your answer in the column. Thank you.—IN LOVE BUT IN DOUBT.

Dear In: Some second-hand cars are bargains and can offer many years of faithful service. Others are awful disappointments because they were misrepresented by someone who wanted to make a quick sale.

It's always wise to get a little history. Why is it on the market? Has it been in a serious wreck and patched up to look as good as new? Or did the original owner unload it merely because she wanted a new model?

'Poor Mouth'

Dear Ann: You seem to know a lot about pyschology. Will you please explain why some people who are well off financially go out of their way to give the impression that they are actually hard up?

I can understand why people who are not very well heeled might pretend to have something but what about these other kooks?

Our friends live in a $50,000 home, have three cars, take luxury trips and the whole family dresses beautifully. Yet they are forever crying poor mouth. They say such things as, "We can't understand why the Smiths invited us — we aren't in their league financially."

The truth is they can buy and sell the Smiths 10 times over. What makes people behave like this?—CAN'T FIGURE 'EM.

Dear Can't: The poor mouthers have a silly notion about how people of means are expected to behave, and they don't feel equal to it. So they try to shake the label of "well to do" to avoid living up to their manufactured image.

Bragging in reverse is phony and bootless. Perhaps they'll see this and cut it out.

Cold Advice

Dear Ann: Your advice to Marcella, the 14-year-old girl with the 35 per cent hearing loss, was cold and inadequate.

No one ridicules a blind person because he can't see or a lame person because he can't walk but when a hard-of-hearing person says he can't hear he often is accused of not paying attention or using his handicap to goof off.

Why didn't you tell Marcella to check to learn if there is a speech and hearing clinic in her city? If a hearing aid is not prescribed she could take a lip - reading course.

You could have told her, too, to write to the Volta Bureau, 1537 35th St. NW, Washington 7, D.C. This is an information center which was founded by Alexander Graham Bell, whose wife, Mabel, was stone deaf.

I do hope you will print this for the benefit of all the Marcellas who are struggling with partial deafness. You owe them more than they got from your first reply.—TAMPA TEACHER OF THE DEAF.

Dear Teacher: I appreciate your hauling me up short for what you considered a "cold and inadequate" reply. Your letter is vastly better and more useful than my answer.

Confidentially

TO FRAZZLED NERVES: Why don't you stop trying to please everybody and please yourself for a change? Then at least one person will be satisfied.

TO OFFENDER OR OFFENDED: Sorry, but you're mistaken at the top of your lungs. The person who does the telephoning is supposed to identify himself. The woman was not rude when she asked, "Who is this?" You were rude for not telling her before she asked.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Coleman Hits Rhodes Story

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Democratic Chairman William L. Coleman fired off a press release lambasting Wednesday's banner story in the Columbus Dispatch almost before the ink on his copy was dry.

The newspaper, citing records of the Republican administration of Gov. James A. Rhodes, reported that less than 10 per cent of the personnel on the state payroll are GOP administration appointees. It added that fewer than 5,000 of the state working force have been hired since Rhodes took office Jan. 14 and said the payroll stands at 53,933 employes compared with 59,439 on Dec. 31, 1962.

Coleman charged that the story was based on statistics twisted by the Rhodes administration.

"No amount of false statistics," Coleman said, "will hide the fact that Governor Rhodes' general fund payroll for the first six months of his administration was higher than for the six months just prior to his assuming office in January.

"He spent $82.5 million the first six months compared to $80.7 million spent the six months prior to his assuming office.

"He claims he has cut thousands off the payroll, yet his own financial statement shows the payroll has gone up. . . ."

Hospital Aides Face Manslaughter Charge

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cuyahoga County grand jury has indicted two former attendants at Cleveland State Hospital on charges of first-degree manslaughter in the beating death of a patient. The indictments were returned Wednesday against Charles L. Williams, 24, and Harold A. Winbush, 26, both of Cleveland.

The patient, Arthur W. Judge, 79, died at the hospital July 27 from injuries allegedly received in a beating the previous weekend.

West Virginia Aides Deny Illegal Move

CHARLESTON (AP) — Two high state officials acknowledged Wednesday that they are connected with an insurance firm that insures the Beckley National Guard Armory.

Secretary of State Joe F. Burdett and Motor Vehicles Commissioner Jack A. Nuckols denied any illegal or wrongful action.

The involved insurance company is the Diversified Fire and Casualty Co. DFC of Beckley. Burdett is a vice president of DFC and a member of the State Armory Board, which awarded the policy to DFC.

Nuckols is head of Raleigh Insurance Agency, Inc. one of whose employes acted as DFC's agent in the sale.

In a story concerning the DFC policy, the Charleston Gazette noted that the Beckley Armory was the only one of 26 such facilities not covered by a blanket insurance policy.

Nuckols said the Beckley Armory was insured with a separate company because of pressure by Beckley residents to place the business with a local company.

He explained that the cost probably would have been the same regardless of who insured the armory. Nuckols said the West Virginia Rating Bureau sets all rates and would not allow any policy that was out of line.

Nuckols also denied that the transaction involved his doing business with the state. He said he doesn't consider the State Armory Board as a state agency in the ordinary sense of the word

FBI Charges Barber In 3 More Bank Jobs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The FBI has pinned three more bank robberies on Portsmouth barber Harold H. Thompson, and if the charges stick, a sizable percentage of financial institution holdups in Ohio during the past two years can be marked "solved."

Thompson, 34-year-old ex - convict, now is charged with three Columbus robberies besides the ones in Columbus, Massillon, Cincinnati and Medina with which the FBI charged him a few days ago.

Thompson and an alleged accomplice in three robberies have been in Cuyahoga County Jail at Cleveland since last week. The alleged partner-in-crime is Lawrence D. Rawlins, 29, of Portsmouth, Thompson's one - time Mansfield reformatory comrade.

The suggestion, offered Wednesday to Western correspondents by non-German Communists, may have been planted by the Reds, diplomats in West Berlin said.

Mitchell Tops Test For Post

James W. Mitchell, 100 Vernia St., Beechwood, now employed as an operator at the city sewage treatment plant, received the top grade in a field of three when the Municipal Civil Service Commission conducted a promotional exam Wednesday night to fill the newly-created post of sewage department maintenance man.

Mitchell's name will be certified to the appointing authority, the Board of Public Utilities. In the case of a promotion, as distinguished from an original appointment, only the name of the top competitor is certified.

Two other sewage plant operators also took the exam, with one scoring a passing grade and another failing, the commission said. The test was held in the Council chamber at City Hall.

The maintenance man's position was created in an ordinance enacted by Council June 3. In effect, it replaces the former position of sanitary and storm sewer inspector, which was held by the late Floyd E. Tice.

The maintenance man's post pays $2.20 hourly, based on a 40-hour week.

The ordinance says his duties include: "correcting difficulties in the sanitary sewer system; making sewer taps; investigating and acting on complaints; correction and repair of mechanical difficulties in pumps, motors and other equipment; replacing sewer conduit and manholes and any other duties he may be assigned by the superintendent."

Man Gets County Jail Term For Resisting Arrest

Marvin E. Lafferty, 2129 Hazel Alley, was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the County Jail when he pleaded guilty today before Acting Municipal Judge Paul Tobin on a charge of resisting arrest.

The court suspended 20 days of the term on condition Lafferty will be of good behavior when he is released. Pleading guilty to an intoxication charge resulting from the same incident, Lafferty was fined $10 and costs.

Lafferty was taken into custody at 6:46 p. m. Wednesday at an Elm St. home by Patrolmen Karl Samples and Paul Blevins, officers reported.

In an unsworn statement to the court, Officer Samples said he was dispatched to the Elm St. residence after a woman there complained she had been struck by Lafferty. The officer said he found Lafferty on the front steps of the home, cursing and obviously intoxicated.

A short time later, Officer Blevins arrived, he related. When Lafferty was placed under arrest, he battled with the two officers, who subdued him, handcuffed him and placed him in a cruiser, Officer Samples told the court.

Killebrew Takes Over Homer Lead With Key Blast

Sanford Loses, 1-0, As Picture Changes Over Last Year

Features 9-4 Win; Yanks Wallop Nats

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Quick-firing Harmon Killebrew ruled murderers' row today after a power struggle at Los Angles in which deposed kingpin Bob Allison issued a warning to the guy who shoved him from the No. 1 spot.

Hammerin' Harmon, who along with Allison and Earl Battey, forms Minnesota's power triumvirate, took over the American League home run lead Wednesday night with a three-run eighth inning shot that catapaulted the Twins to a 9-4 victory over the Angels.

Killebrew's 26th homer gave him one more than Allison and put him five up on Battey. Killebrew, who tied for the homer championship with 42 in 1959 and captured the crown with 48 last year, is trying to become only the ninth player in AL history to hold or share the title three or more times.

Allison was forced to the sidelines for two or three days with a fracture of the ring finger on his right hand. He was struck by a pitch from Los Angeles' Dean Chance in Tuesday night's game.

Allison warned at the time:

"That's the third time he has hit me this season and I'm getting tired of it."

The Twins' triumph pulled them into third-place, 9½ games behind the New York Yankees who got homers from Joe Pepitone and Elston Howard in a 9-1 walloping of Washington. The second-place Chicago White Sox remained eight games back with a 7-3 decision over Kansas City.

Al Kaline's home run lifted Detroit to a 5-4 victory over slumping Boston and Cleveland dropped Baltimore into fourth place by downing the Orioles 4-1.

The Angels led 4-2 going into the eighth when Rich Rollins and Vic Power singled and Killebrew tagged Ken McBride, 12-8. Relief specialist Bill Dailey, who preserved Camilo Pascual's 13th triumph against six losses, hit a three-run homer in the ninth for the Twins to pad the final margin. Leon Wagner hit No. 22 for the Angels.

Pepitone started the Yankees' rout against Steve Ridzik with his 20th homer, a three-run shot, in the first inning and before it was over the AL leaders had collected 14 hits. Howard hit a career high with his 22nd homer while Bobby Richardson chipped in with a three-run double. Al Downing, 8-3, checked the Senators on three singles, but Minnie Minoso stole home in the third to spoil his shutout bid.

Rookie Pete Ward triggered the White Sox victory over the A's, driving in three runs with a homer and two singles, and Dave Nicholson crashed a key two-run double with the bases loaded in a four-run sixth inning rally that wrapped it up. Juan Pizarro, with relief help from Jim Brosnan, matched his previous season high with his 14th victory.

LUCKLESS ROGER CRAIG of the New York Mets, contemplates uniform shirt with number 13 in the Polo Grounds clubhouse. Roger will switch to 13 from his regular number 38 for Friday's game with Chicago, when he will try to improve his 2-20 record and stop his 18-game losing streak. (UPI Telephoto)

Craig's Job Made Easier After Switch In Records

NEW YORK (AP)—The way Roger Craig's luck is running he'll probably slip on a four-leaf clover and trip over a rabbit's foot on the way to the Polo Grounds Friday night.

Craig, who may wear uniform No. 13 and pitch from under a ladder while kicking a black cat in his next start for the New York Mets, took a step closer to the major league record for consecutive losses Wednesday without throwing one pitch.

Craig got the lucky break when the major league records committee made a thorough check of past games and reduced the number of consecutive losses credited to John Nabors of the 1916 Philadelphia Athletics from 20 to 19.

The fixing of the discrepancy makes Craig's job much easier.

The Mets right-hander already has 18 successive setbacks on a 2-20 record. He tied the National League record for most consecutive losses in his last start, equaling a mark that had stood unchallenged for over 50 years. Cliff Curtis of the 1910 Boston Braves set the standard.

"I don't worry about records," Craig said Wednesday. "I know I am pitching well. The fellows on the team know I am pitching well. The opposition knows I am pitching well.

"If I started worrying about all these losses—and they really gnaw away at your insides sometimes—I guess I'd go completely batty."

What's Craig going to do?

"The clubhouse boy told me I ought to wear uniform No. 13 against the Chicago Cubs Friday night. I think I'll do it.

"I may even break every mirror in the house, walk under some ladders and kick a few black cats around. Anything to break this jinx. I'm getting pretty desperate."

LA Tops Chicago; Mets Whip Cards

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

About this time a year ago Jack Sanford had won seven straight games in a streak that eventually stretched to 16 and an outstanding 24-7 record with the San Francisco Giants.

In that long victory run, the husky right-hander completed on five games, getting relief help and plenty of batting support to enable him to earn credit for the other 11 victories. This was mighty nice and was reflected in a fat $37,000 salary for 1963, befitting the star pitcher of a National League championship team.

Somehow, all of the little pieces that fitted so neatly together last year are all out of whack this year. For instance take Wednesday night in Houston. The 34-year-old ace hurled a masterful three-hitter against the Colts but lost 1-0.

Sanford's mates got nine hits but couldn't dent the plate against Dick Farrell and relief star Hal Woodeshick. It looked like they might in the ninth when Orlando Cepeda and Matty Alou singled off Farrell to put men on first and third with one out. But Woody stepped in then for his 40th appearance of the year and got pinch hitter Harvey Kuenn to hit into a double play.

So now Sanford has a 10-12 record against a mark of 14-6 at the same time in 1962, which is a big difference and as good a reason as any why the Los Angeles Dodgers have a six-game lead over the Giants as well as the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Dodgers upped their advantage by a full game over all of the first division clubs by nipping the Cubs in Chicago 3-1 on Tommy Davis' homer in the 11th inning. The New York Mets clubbed the Cards 7-3, the Phils edged Cincinnati 2-1, and Pittsburgh topped Milwaukee 5-4.

Davis' leadoff homer in the 11th inning against reliever Lindy McDaniel proved the winner at Chicago although the Dodgers got another to make sure. This gave the victory to Ron Perranoski who took over for Sandy Koufax after the fireballer had yielded a tying run in the 10th inning.

Sandy got himself another mention in the record book, however, by fanning 11. This gave him 210 whiffs for the season and enabled him to tie Christy Mathewson's National League record of three consecutive 200-strikeout seasons.

Jim Hickman became the first New York Met ever to hit for the cycle—single, double, triple and homer—in pacing the aroused cellar-dwellers to a 7-3 triumph over the contending Cards. Veteran Duke Snider lashed three singles in the Mets' 11-hit attack against four Card pitchers, starting with loser Ernie Broglio, 12-8. Tracy Stallard held the Cards to six hits for his fifth victory against 10 defeats.

Antonio Fires Hot Round At Michigan

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Alex Antonio Jr. of Hubbard, Ohio, turned in a hot 34 on the back nine and finished with a 74 Wednesday that gave him a tie for fourth place in the Western Amateur Golf Tournament's initial qualifying round.

Two other Ohioans were among the six 74 shooters who trailed Dick Sikes of Springdale, Ark., and Bert Greene of Knoxville, Tenn., who had 72s, and Bud Stevens of Detroit with a 73. They were Bob Bourne of Oberlin, 37-37, and Don Voth of Akron, 38-36.

Tom Weiskopf of Bedford, Ohio, fired a 76 while defending champion Art Hudnutt of Elyria staggered to a 43-41—84.

Qualifying continues today and Friday over the Point-o-Woods course. The low 50 compete Friday for 16 berths in championship match play Saturday and Sunday.

Butts' Attorneys Begin Rebuttal In 'Post' Case

ATLANTA (AP)—Attorneys for former Georgia coach Wally Butts begin their rebuttal today in the wake of a federal judge's declaration that a magazine article charging Butts and Alabama coach Paul (Bear) Bryant rigged a football game was libelous on its face.

Attorney William H. Schroder Jr. said Butts may take the stand today in the $10 million libel suit he has filed against Curtis Publishing Co., publishers of the Saturday Evening Post. Bryant, Schroder said, probably will testify Friday along with other coaches and players.

The rebuttal began after U.S. District Judge Louis R. Morgan, who Wednesday termed the magazine's March 23 story "libelous per se," refused a directed verdict in favor of Butts. Judge Morgan said it was up to the jury to decide whether the Post, in less than three days of testimony, had proved its charges were true. Attorneys for the publishing company rested their case, in a surprise step, late Wednesday.

The magazine charged in its March 23 issue that Butts, then Georgia's athletic director, leaked vital Georgia football information to Bryant before the 1962 game between their schools.

Frank Graham Jr., free-lance writer who assembled the story for the Post, said in written testimony Wednesday that he based the story on an affidavit in which insurance salesman George P. Burnett said he overheard a telephone call from Butts to Bryant last Sept. 13, nine days before the game.

Schroder and another Butts Attorney, Allen Lockerman, read the testimony into the record.

In the deposition, Graham said he met and interviewed Burnett in Atlanta but that he wrote the article without seeing notes Burnett said he took while listening to Butts and Bryant on the telephone.

Legion Jrs. Top Leetonia By 6-2 Count

East Liverpool Post 374 jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning and that proved good enough to chalk up a 6-2 victory over Leetonia Wednesday on the Leetonia diamond.

Dave Myers and Bob Woods each banged out three hits in four trips to the plate and Butch Nolan hammered a home run to feature the locals attack.

Bill Miller was the winning pitcher.

Miss Whitworth Heads Field In Waterloo Open

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP)—Kathy Whitworth, shooting for her third straight victory on the professional tour and out to break a three-year jinx here, heads the entries in the Waterloo Women's Open Golf Tournament starting Friday.

Miss Whitworth will be challenged for the title by Mickey Wright, the 1961 Waterloo winner and leading money winner on the tour this year, along with more than 30 other professional golfers.

Miss Whitworth shot a four-under-par 284 last year but finished second, five strokes behind Marilyn Smith. In 1961, Miss Whitworth was second to Miss Wright, and in 1960 the Jal, N.M., sharpshooter lost a playoff for the crown to Wiffi Smith.

Two Wellsville Linemen Will Start For All-Stars

Two Wellsville High linemen who were regulars their senior years have drawn starting assignments for the North squad in Friday night's All-Star game at Martins Ferry Stadium.

They are Jack Cataldo, left, 165-pound center who will start with the offensive unit, and Mike Welch, named middle linebacker for the defensive team.

Welch, who co-captained the Tiger squad in 1962, is one of the North's biggest linemen at 185-pounds.

Coach Dick Thurnes of Warren Consolidated said both ex-Tigers have looked very impressive in drills, especially Welch on defense.

Welch was regular tackle on Coach Ken Woods' Tiger eleven last season. An exceptional scholar, he has received scholarship offers from Yale and Oberlin on classroom ability.

Cataldo scored a touchdown for Wellsville in last year's game with Lisbon after intercepting a pass while operating at linebacker. The Tigers finished 3-7 last season, but were accorded the Buckeye Border Conference championship by virtue of a 3-1 record in conference play.

Tom Cloran Among Leaders In Ohio Public Links Play

By HAL PARIS

SPRINGFIELD — Tom Cloran of East Liverpool and Grady Metz of Columbiana were among contenders heading into another 18-hole qualifying test today in quest of the 30th Ohio Public Links golf championship.

The two area men fired 74's, five behind Tonie Shorie of Canton who, wielding a precision putter, paced the first round action Wednesday with a three-under-par 69.

The Northeast Ohio linkster carved out a one-stroke lead with a 37-32 showing over Reid Memorial's rugged 6,749-yard par 37-35—72 layout.

Shorie used only 10 putts on the birdies for the round.

Tied for second place with 70s were Win Curry of Mount Vernon and Lalu Sabotin of Warren, who finished second in this 72 - hole classic two years ago.

Today's round reduces the huge field of 240 to the low 60 scorers and ties. Veteran tourney competitors were predicting that a 152 score would be needed to make the 36-hole finale Friday.

In challenging position were Bob Lilko of Youngstown, who fired a 71, and Ray Robison of Hubbard and Bob Young of Mansfield, who deadlocked for fifth place with 72s.

Just a stroke over par and bracketed at 73 were George Welsh of Dayton, Alex Rotar Jr. of Canton, Gene Lawson of Springfield, Norm Withrow of Marion, Joe Kundus of Youngstown and two-time winner Len Pietros of Toledo.

Pietros copped the crowns in 1956 and 1960.

Another ex-champion, Art Todd of Columbus, the 1959 kingpin, was in the running with a 74.

Other contenders with 74s were Jim Logue of Springfield, Bill Santor of Youngstown, Vic Banish of Warren, Joe Campana Sr. of Warren, Bob Farber Sr. of North Canton and Martin Zitner of Cleveland.

Half the field played Tuesday's round at Reid and the other half performed over Snyder Park's 6,081-yard course. The two groups swapped courses for today's action.

Scores of other area golfers included David Patton of Steubenville, 82; Ed Koski of Steubenville, 78; James Roach of Steubenville, 76; Stanley Kosikowski of Steubenville, 93; Richard Mahon of Columbiana, 79; Steve Pavelko of Columbiana, 80; and Warren Laughlin of Columbiana, 85.

Dallas-Rams Game Starts Exhibitions

By The Associated Press

For those fans who think sports is spelled f-o-o-t-b-a-l-l, there are happy tidings starting tonight and for the entire week.

Within a seven-day span, opening with tonight's Dallas Cowboys-Los Angeles Rams game at Los Angeles, the teams in the National and American Football Leagues will engage in 11 exhibitions for the purpose of conditioning, finding out which players to keep or drop—and for making money.

On Saturday, the NFL opens up on five fronts with the following exhibitions: Baltimore vs. Philadelphia at Hershey, Pa.; Chicago vs. New York at Ithaca, N.Y.; Cleveland vs. Detroit at Detroit; Green Bay vs. Pittsburgh at Miami, and Minnesota vs. San Francisco at Portland, Ore.

The whole AFL gets into the act, starting on Friday when the new New York Jets, formerly the Titans, play Houston at Shreveport, La., and the Buffalo Bills take on the champion Kansas City Chiefs, formerly the Dallas Texans, at Kansas City.

On Saturday Boston plays the Chargers at San Diego, on Sunday it is Denver at Oakland, and Wednesday finds Boston opposing Houston at Lowell, Mass.

The AFL already has had three exhibitions in which all of the favorites were beaten. San Diego thumped Kansas City 26-14, Denver toppled Houston 27-14 and Oakland, which won only one game in 1962, edged Boston 24-17, all last weekend.

Free Parking Plans Set For County Fair

LISBON — Chief Leon Zahrndt, who will be in charge of policing and parking at the annual County Fair, discussed recommendations for handling free parking at the meeting of the Columbiana County Fair Board Wednesday night.

He told the board he will have police on the grounds 24-hours each day during the fair Aug. 22-26. County Boy Scouts will also assist in parking cars, along with five attendants.

A letter from A. D. McLaughlin of Carroll County, deputy state fire marshal who inspected the grounds and buildings, termed them excellent.

The sheep department, with Ike Skeels as manager, authorized entries from Mahoning, Stark, Carroll and Jefferson counties. Previously, they were limited to Columbiana County.

West Branch and Minerva High School bands will be allowed to participate in an all-county band concert Sunday, because parts of these school districts are in Columbiana County.

The fair board's office at the grounds will be open daily, beginning Wednesday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. to accept entries for the 118th annual fair.

Ben Weingart of Leetonia R.D., president, presided.

Next meeting will be Aug. 15, after the close of livestock entries that day at 6 p.m., to enable department heads to arrange their entries and assign stalls.

102 Attend White Family Reunion

Mrs. Zelma Davis was named food chairman of the 1964 reunion. Bud Fleming and Sam Scragg were named co-chairmen of sports.

Recognition was given Henry White as the oldest person present; Charles Robert Click Jr., youngest child, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bistor of Antwerp, Ohio, traveling the farthest.

The annual auction was featured.

Diversions included races and ball games.

John Bistor gave the invocation for dinner.

Convict Slain In Mansfield

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Gary Lee McBeth, 24, a Mansfield Reformatory inmate whose body was found on the third floor of the institution Wednesday afternoon, was strangled, Coroner D.C. Lavender of Richland County reported today.

Another inmate, Jerry Lee Keith, 21, of Dover, is being held for investigation in McBeth's death.

McBeth, of New Philadelphia, was received at the institution April 14, 1960, to serve a 6 to 50-year term for stabbing with intent to wound.

Keith was admitted Feb. 28, 1962, from Stark County, to serve a term of 10-30 years on charges of armed robbery, kidnaping and auto theft.

A preliminary investigation showed that Wednesday afternoon Keith had obtained a pass to see the chaplain and against reformatory rules, took the elevator instead of walking to the third floor. McBeth was the elevator operator.

Buffalo Sets Rain Damage At $35 Million

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Flood damage in Buffalo was estimated at $35 million following torrential rains that virtually swamped some areas and routed more than 300 persons from their homes.

Rains up to 3.88 inches drenched the city and suburbs Wednesday for the second time in 10 days.

The rains fell mostly during the midmorning rush hours. It was over by noon.

An open letter to OIL FURNACE owners

We can substantially reduce your fuel oil bills . . .

regardless of whether you purchased your present oil furnace a year ago — or 20 years ago! How can we make such a claim? Because Iron Fireman has developed a completely new kind of oil firing equipment—the CUSTOM Mark II furnace, which requires no chimney draft. This amazing furnace generates its own combustion air supply—it starts clean and burns clean. With VoluMetric Combustion, it burns oil vapor and the oxygen in the air in just the right proportions for smokeless firing. The result: Fuel savings that you never thought possible!

The Iron Fireman CUSTOM Mark II furnace delivers an unusually steady, even warmth throughout your home. Service calls are virtually non-existent, since the principal causes for them have been eliminated.

We would like to show you how an Iron Fireman CUSTOM Mark II furnace actually more than pays for itself. Phone us for free folder and full information. No obligations whatever.

Junior Editors Quiz on GOLF

QUESTION: Why is the pin the golf ball rests on called a "tee"?

ANSWER: You've probably heard people say—"That's it—to a T!"—when they meant something was exactly right. The letter T is often used as a symbol to show the exact placement of something, and this comes from the draughtsman's instrument, the "T-square," which we show in the upper left-hand corner. Draughtsmen use T-squares to place or measure things perfectly and exactly. The word "tee" has the same meaning of an exact or precise point. Golfers start their game by hitting the ball away from some small elevation, often made of wood or rubber and, since this is an exact spot, it came to be called a "tee" and the act of driving the ball from it became "teeing off."

Golf has become amazingly popular; it is said to be America's favorite outdoor sport. Perhaps this is because skill is more important than brute strength, and this makes golf popular with all ages. It takes plenty of walking, which is splendid exercise. The golfer's purpose is to drive his ball into a distant hole in the fewest possible strokes. There are plenty of things which happen to make it exciting; his ball may land in the "rough," in a "sandtrap," or a "water hazard." And there's always the thrill of reaching the "putting green" and "sinking" your ball into the hole.

FOR YOU TO DO: "Par" is the number of strokes officials decide is average for experts to hit the ball into a hole. Learn these golf terms to teach yourself more about the game: a "birdie" is making a hole in one stroke under par. But a "bogey" is bad—that's when you take one stroke more than par to reach a hole.

Painful Pinch Is Worldwide

By RALEIGH ALLSBROOK

NEW YORK (AP)—If you see red when you think how much the tax collectors get from your pay, take consolation. Millions of other persons around the world share your feelings.

An Associated Press survey showed that in four of six world centers, families of modest incomes pay 13 to 20 per cent of their incomes in taxes.

In the higher pay brackets, the tax percentages range from 45 to 77 per cent.

An imaginary bus driver and a $100,000-a-year-man were selected in each location, each with a wife and two children. Because of the complexity of various tax structures, estimates had to be used on a number of points.

An average bus driver in New York earns $5,824, more than double the pay of drivers in other countries.

But he pays $568 in federal income tax and $603 in other taxes, totaling 20 per cent of his pay.

The average bus driver in Frankfurt, on an income of $2,460, hands over 17 per cent—income tax of $120 and other taxes of $297.

The London bus driver has 14 per cent taken out of his $2,080 wage. His income tax is only $5.35. But other taxes total $289.

In Paris, the bus driver's wage comes to $1,872, but under the country's regulations he also gets a family allowance of $348 from his employer.

The wage figure exempts the man from income taxes. His indirect taxes amount to $290 or 13 per cent.

Of $1,547 in pay, the Tokyo bus driver pays 8 per cent in taxes—$59 for income tax and $64 for others.

And in Rio de Janeiro, the driver makes $1,270, but his tax bill is the lowest of all—6 per cent. His income tax is $10 and other taxes amount to $70.

The comparison in taxes for the $100,000-a-year men moves Rio de Janeiro from the lowest spot to one of the highest. More than 65 per cent of the Rio man's earnings go to the tax collector.

His federal income tax alone comes to 65 per cent. An approximate figure for his other taxes could not be determined.

In the United States, personal income of workers totaled $440 billion last year. They paid out $128 billion in various taxes.

The Tax Foundation, a nonprofit organization, estimates that U.S. federal taxes in 1962 amounted to $549 per person, compared with $1.92 in 1800.

Milk Board May Set Price Study In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Pa. — A hearing on milk prices in western Pennsylvania is expected to be scheduled by the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission as a result of growing pressure for restudy of the price structures.

The commission has already received petitions for price hearings from two farm groups and two individual producers, and there has been unofficial criticism of the gallon retail price of milk.

Gov. William Scranton's appointee to the commission — conservative Republican Joab K. Mahood — was sworn into office Wednesday to replace Democrat John A. Smith. The commission now consists of J. Lin Huber, head of one of the biggest cooperatives in Eastern Pennsylvania, and J. Emerson Work of Fayette County.

The Western Pennsylvania Milk Producers Association and the Keystone Milk Producers Association have filed petitions for hearings, as have two individual dairy farmers from Saegertown.

The producers' petition was concerned with dealer - producer price relation, and seeks to eliminate seasonal drops in prices and to have the commission investigate the effect of milk imported from other states by dealers.
